Cameras to catch out rowdy youths

SCHOOL'S out and extra police patrols will be making sure that young people in Haverhill are not making a nuisance of themselves or drinking under age.

The town's new sector commander Inspector Chris Galley has launched a special operation, starting tomorrow, to crack down on anti-social behaviour, particularly involving groups of youngsters.

Officers wearing headcams will film any incidents they see and use the footage to identify offenders and prosecute where necessary.

Youngsters found drunk will be taken home for their own safety and a letter sent home to those guilty of anti-social behaviour.

Sgt Sarah Bartley, leader of the Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team, said known trouble spots would be targeted, along with areas where residents had noted problems.

Under-age drinking seemed to involve mainly youngsters aged 14 or 15, but some as young as 12 had been caught.

She said: "Historically in the summer months with the children breaking up from school, we see an increase in anti-social behaviour complaints and we are trying to target the problem areas.

"We are also concerned about alcohol abuses, particularly outside local businesses and youths pestering members of the public to buy alcohol for them.

"We will be enforcing the alcohol free area which covers the whole of the town centre as well as Tesco, Strasbourg Square and the recreation ground.

"We have the power to seize alcohol, whether it is open of closed, and they could be prosecuted and fined up to £500.

"We want to nip things in the bud and take the alcohol away before they drink it and cause problems later on.

"Our message to parents is 'Do you know where your teenagers are?', 'Are they out drinking alcohol?'

"If we find them drunk, we will take them home as a safety measure and all youths stopped will get a letter sent home about anti-social behaviour."

Pupils vote in new head boy and girl

CAMERON and Clegg may be sorting out the new government in London but pupils of a primary school have taken their own trip to the polls in a historic first election to choose a head boy and girl.

A shortlist of six candidates was drawn up for head boy and girl and another six for deputies at Westfield Primary School in Haverhill. After presenting their campaign speeches at assembly, the candidates had an anxious wait for the results of the secret ballot to be announced the following day.

A secret ballot was held with all pupils putting their forms in a special ballot box. The successful candidates will run the student leadership team which heads up the school council. Two children from each class act as school councillors and meet every two weeks to help bring about change and development in the school.

Rosie Campbell and deputy Jill Lightfoot said competition for the important roles was very fierce and the election proved an exciting event.

Mrs Campbell said: "All the children were very interested in the election and loved the idea of holding an election unique to Westfield. The candidates performed extremely well under pressure and managed their campaign in a very dignified way."

Results of the election were: head boy - Jack Walker, head girl - Aimee Williams, deputy head boy - Ryan Harvey, deputy head girl - Mia Passmore.

Grants available for health projects

LOCAL groups aiming to start schemes which have health benefits can apply for a share of £200,000 to help their initiatives get off the ground.

Vital health projects have already benefited from the Healthy Ambitions Suffolk grants programme, which offers funding to both new and existing projects which will benefit people in the county.

With the deadline for applications closing on May 31, groups who have already successfully bid for a grant have urged others to follow their lead.

Among those to benefit so far have been the West Suffolk Voluntary Association for the Blind, which is based in Bury St Edmunds and helps people with sight impairments to maintain their independence and quality of life. They successfully applied for a grant of £4,000, which has part-funded a specialist for a 12 month period who will help around 200 partially-sighted people to make the best use of their residual vision.

Gail Cornish, of the charity, said: "The grant funding has helped us enormously, as it has allowed the association to continue to provide our low vision therapy service."

"The service has been extremely well received and makes such a big difference to our clients. We have had examples where people have come in and only been able to read the top letter of an eye test board. After the sessions, they can use their residual eyesight much more effectively, and can go home and read bank statements, appointment dates on letters and even newspaper print."

Grants are aimed at community and voluntary groups run and led by local people.

Sally Hogg, head of health improvement partnerships at NHS Suffolk, said: "We are delighted that the grants which Healthy Ambitions Suffolk has awarded so far have already made such a difference to people's health, wellbeing and quality of life."

Groups interested in a grant should contact The Suffolk Foundation, which is managing the scheme, to discuss their ideas before making an application. Project co-ordinator Sue Wright can give further guidance and is available on (01473) 734127.

Police defend move to cut station desk hours

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

OPENING hours at Haverhill's police station are to be changed, losing two hours of cover over weekends.

The station's front desk is currently open daily from 9am to 6pm, but that will be moved to 8am-5pm Monday to Friday and 9am-5pm on Saturday and Sunday.

A meeting of Suffolk Police Authority approved the changes to public enquiry desk hours at a meeting last Friday.

The new hours will be implemented towards the end of the year.

Public consultation showed that more than half of those questioned preferred to contact the police by telephone, and did not mind station opening hours being reduced.

But 40 out of 48 station clerks who responded to the consultation were critical of the survey and claimed it did not represent the majority view.

They also questioned how the cuts in hours could work, due to existing staff shortages, and asked why frontline staff hours were being cut.

A spokesman for the police authority said the changes would save £200,000 over three years.

Assistant Chief Constable Gary Kitching said: "This business case was recommended to the authority following extensive consultation with the public and staff to determine how we can provide the best public access points tailored to meet local needs.

"The current structure of the opening hours of public enquiry desks has lacked any consistency, resulting in inefficient use of our resources.

"These changes will allow us to respond to these inefficiencies, maintaining an essential presence within our communities in the form of our valued and knowledgeable front desk staff, whilst realising required efficiency savings.

"It is important to emphasise that these changes affect the public enquiry desk facility at police stations. The stations themselves will remain fully operational."

The changes approved will not affect the availability of police officers to respond to emergency or the running of Safer Neighbourhood Teams to engage with the public on local concerns and to deal with community issues on a daily basis.

Suffolk Police Authority chairman Colin Spence said: "The Police Authority has approved the recommendation following lengthy debate.

"The decision was not easy. At a time when public sector spending is to be cut, it is essential that we deploy our resources correctly, protecting our essential services while spending efficiently."

Soldiers go on the run for Little Wonders' new home appeal

THREE soldiers who returned home from serving in Afghanistan just six weeks ago were treated to a soothing massage after completing a 37-mile sponsored run to raise money for a pre-school group in their home town.

Lance Corporal Daniel Monks, 22, Private Matthew Steed, 21, and Private Jason Gale, 20, all serve with the Royal Anglian Regiment and are based at Purbright in Surrey.

All three are from Haverhill and Jason's sister, Leanne Bronson, is one of a group of mums who have been raising funds for a new building for the Little Wonders group, based at Westfield Primary

The trio hope to raise at least £450 from their efforts and donations can still be made through the Little Wonders group.

The three agreed to run to Cambridge and back last Friday and, despite finding it more arduous than they expected in the unseasonably warm weather, completed the trek in just under nine hours. But between them they did return with an injured Achilles tendon and a twisted ankle.

Daniel said: "Jason suggested running to Cambridge and I said it would be too easy so why not run back as well. We did not do any training for it at all.

"When you are in Afghanistan you don't do any training. You cannot go for a run because as soon as you leave the base there are people shooting at you. When you come back here you acclimatise to the temperature and we were not expecting the heat. We were all suffering as soon as we got out of town."

Theresa Steward and Clair Nagorski, at Arevolution in Merton Slade, Haverhill, treated the lads to massage to soothe their aching limbs.

Theresa said: "Jason's sister asked us to do it to say thank you to them and we were happy to help. None of them had ever had a proper massage before, so we hope they enjoyed it."

'We'll be out there watching'

Sgt Kevin Horton will lead similar initiatives in the villages around Haverhill and Special Inspector Gerry Kiernan will supply special constables to help with the patrols.

Inspector Galley said: "I am really glad to be here in Haverhill and really looking forward to working with the team we have got here and building on the good work already done, not just by the police but also with other partners and organisations.

"Anti-social behaviour in general has declined in St Edmundsbury compared to last year and I think it is important to continue to work to reduce it even further. I want people to know that we will be out there and we are going to be dealing with anti-social behaviour robustly."

Extra beauties to help lead Meadowlark parade

A BEVY of beauties will head up the parade for this year's Kedington Meadowlark on Saturday, June 12.

Miss Meadowlark Mollie Betts, 13, will travel at the head of the parade in a horse drawn coach, with an escort for the first time this year, 12-year-old Ben Eames.

Her attendants will be Aimee McGuire, 10, and Emily Veness, 11.

Also joining the parade will be Maisie Rice and Aimee Everitt, both 13, who have entered the Miss Meadowlark competition for the past six years. As they were unsuccessful in their last year before they are over the age limit, organisers decided to invite them to join the parade to thank them for their support for the event.

Before the Meadowlark is a programme of events, starting with a quiz night at the community centre on Saturday, June 5, at 7.30pm and a Teddylark for under 10s and their families on Sunday, June 6, with cream teas also available from 3-5.30pm.

There will also be a darts tournament on Tuesday, June 7, a carpet bowls evening on Tuesday, June 8 and a cribbage tournament on Wednesday, June 9.

This is the 42nd Meadowlark and the theme for this year's event is 'musicals', with the usual parade of floats through the village and stalls and arena events on the Great Meadow, starting at 2.15pm.

Traders' plan for a party

TRADERS in Haverhill's Queen Street are planning a public celebration to mark the arrival of new street gates in July.

A meeting was held at Sonia's salon this week with several traders and town centre manager Tina Hanks.

The striking new gates, shaped like giant leaves, have been designed by pupils at several schools in the town and will be officially unveiled at 1.30pm on Friday July 16.

Suggestions put forward at the meeting included a fashion show involving all the businesses in the street, as well as food and other items showing the range of goods and services available in Queen Street and Queens Square.

Another open meeting will be held next Tuesday at 5.30pm at Goldstar in Queens Square.

Anyone who cannot attend, or who wants to suggest ideas, can phone Sonia on (01440) 712 924, (01440) 707772 or email soniasalon@hotmail.com

Festival draws big names for its 21st

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Rubber-faced comedian Phil Cool, BBC Radio 4 favourite Rabbi Lionel Blue and Grumpy Old Man Arthur Smith will be among the headliners at a jam-packed 21st Haverhill Festival line-up next month.

Haverhill Town Council has announced the programme for the annual festival, which starts on Saturday June 19 and combines a host of music, films, comedy, sport, historical and dance events.

Arts and leisure manager Nick Keeble said: "The Haverhill Festival is about bringing nationally-recognised names alongside free events that aim to bring the community together."

"I am proud to say longstanding events like The Last Night of the Festival Proms and the Haverhill Historic Walks are as popular as ever and that this year we've got stars such as The Kathryn Tickell Band and comedian Arthur Smith coming to the town."

Kicking off the festival on Saturday June 19 is a trio of musical events, starting with a harmonica workshop at Haverhill Arts Centre at 11am with expert tuition by Steve Lockwood. In the afternoon, Haverhill Silver Band will fill give a free concert on the Market Square, with the Buddy Holly Tribute, Rave On, and Michael King as British rock 'n' roller Billy Fury at the arts centre at 7.30pm.

Other musical treats include Arnold Sinfonia's guitar recital with Andrew Booth at the arts centre on Sunday 20 June at 7.30pm.

Perennial favourite of the keyboard world, Robert Wolfe, returns to Haverhill as a guest of the Haverhill Keyboard Club on Tuesday June 29 at 7.30pm, while the highly-acclaimed Kathryn Tickell Band plays the arts centre on Friday July 2 at 8pm.

Phil Cool, one of the country's most original comedians and impressionists, is at the arts centre on Friday June 25 at 7.30pm for a show which promises a wealth of hilarious anecdotes, observations and routines that make him as funny today as he was in the 1980s.

Thought for the Day contributor Rabbi Lionel Blue will be on stage on Sunday June 27 at 8pm with a selection of stories, incidents and conversations. His dotty, inconsequential flavour will appeal to people of all beliefs – or those who have none.

The ever-popular street festival, on Saturday July 3, will see a gigantic bird of paradise, stilt-walking pirates playing a sea-shanty or two, beautifully-choreographed juggling; a game of tennis with a very posh umpire, slow-motion replays, strawberries and tantrums; plus a show in which the clock is ticking away as the performers pack 25 shows into 25 minutes.

There's also fire breathing, juggling, bed of nails, magic and escapology.

And Arthur Smith appears as part of his national tour on Wednesday June 15 at 8pm.

For tickets and further details go to www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk or call the arts centre box office on (01440) 714140.

Villagers invited to fete

VILLAGERS in Withersfield will be setting up their stalls on the village green on Saturday June 12 for their annual fete.

The event will be held from 1-4pm, with games, music, a barbecue, teas and a raffle.

Carry on darling mayor . . .

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Haverhill's mayor has done such a sterling job over the past year that her fellow councillors have agreed that she should continue in the role for a further year.

Cllr Elaine McManus had been due to hand over her chains of office to her deputy, and husband, Paul, but he suggested that she should continue and the rest of Haverhill Town Council agreed at the annual town meeting on Tuesday night.

Cllr McManus said: "He said I had made such a brilliant job of it I should carry on."

"I have got work commitments which would make it hard for him to attend things and it does take up an awful lot of time."

"I am thoroughly enjoyed my first year of office and I am honoured to be asked to serve a second term."

Cllr McManus was also celebrating the news that a wine tasting evening helped to raise fund £300 for her two chosen charities.

She chose charities Headstart 4 Babies and the Haverhill Volunteer Centre to raise funds for during her year of office.

Her cheese and wine event was hosted at the Tesco coffee shop and the store's community champion, Claire Bowden, helped organise it.

Cllr McManus said she was grateful to the store for its support and thrilled to raise £310 for the charities.

She said: "These charities have been at the forefront of my year as mayor and I am delighted to have been able to help raise funds to support both of them."

"One, as you may know, is a charity very close to my heart because of my family and the other is close to my heart because of the work it does to help people in Haverhill, the town where I am proud to be mayor.

"It was a very enjoyable evening. This year has been very special for me and my family and it was really encouraging to see so many people support me and my charities."

The mayor was able to hand over cheques for £800 to both charities this week, thanks to her efforts over the past year.

Centre's hope for more helpers

MORE than 200 volunteers are already active in Haverhill and events taking place in Volunteer Week aim to sign up even more helpers.

Haverhill Volunteer Centre is hoping to raise its profile during the week, which begins on Monday, and will hold a coffee morning at Haverhill Arts Centre on Friday, June 4, from 10am to noon.

Information will be available about what volunteers do and it is hoped more young people will get involved.

For more information, phone (01440) 708444.

Developer's bid for science park

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A HAVERHILL developer has unveiled ambitious plans to turn his vision of a "gateway science and research park" for the town into a reality.

Nic Rumsey, a director of Carisbrooke Investments, spoke about plans for land off of the first roundabout at the Cambridge end of the bypass, at the latest meeting of the Best of Haverhill group.

He said Carisbrooke, which developed the Haverhill Business Park, has already bought most of the 30-acre site earmarked for the Haverhill Research Park and the firm is negotiating to buy the remaining plots.

A masterplan has been drawn up and talks are under way with possible partners, such as University College Suffolk.

But Mr Rumsey, who owns the Days Inn hotel on the business park, said the planned science park site was on a hill, which could make it expensive to develop, with infrastructure costs alone estimated at £4 million.

While the zoning would currently only allow for a large warehouse to be built there, Mr Rumsey had proposing a mixed-use development, with two-thirds devoted to high-tech, scientific offices and laboratories and the remaining land for "high value" uses, such as houses, shops, sheltered accommodation or another hotel.

But Mr Rumsey said he would be pressing St Edmundsbury Borough Council for a park "draft concept statement" in order to finance the scheme.

He told the meeting: "There has been a plan for 30 years for something to be put on this site which makes a statement about the town and its success, but nothing has happened."

Big ideas: developer Nic Rumsey with Best of Haverhill owner Elaine Carr at the business meeting, where plans for a research park were unveiled.

"There has been a conflict of aspirations, but we think we have come up with a reasonable solution."

"At the front of the site, we propose a three- to five-storey high landmark building, with offices and laboratories and other high value uses at the back of the site."

"We have already joined the UK Science Park Association and hope to form additional partnerships with educational and business users."

"We want to develop an innovation centre as soon as possible and develop links with existing cutting-edge technology firms interested in coming here or already in town, like Genzymne."

"But we need a concept statement from St Edmundsbury Borough Council to make the idea viable and if we get this, I believe we will have a full planning application in by the end of the year."

Elaine Carr, owner of the Best of Haverhill franchise, said: "Nic's plans were well received and there were some very positive comments from members of the business community at the event."

"The plans for the research park will create an attractive entrance to the town from the Cambridge side."

"The development has the potential to provide employment opportunities for local people who currently travel to Cambridge to work in the hi-tech and research and development sectors."

"A research park could encourage a high profile academic institution to have a base in Haverhill."

Sarah Howard, chairman of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, welcomed plans to create more high tech jobs in Haverhill.

She said: "I fully support any inward investment into the town. Nic Rumsey and Carisbrooke have a long term view of Haverhill."

"Nic has presented to our committee and his plans look very attractive. A science park would be a fantastic gateway to the town."

Pictures: Keith Jones

Curfew motion sparks debate

A MOTION that every Haverhill youngster aged 16 and under should be subjected to a curfew from 9pm to 7am sparked a lively debate among upper and middle school students last week.

More than 200 students took part in the debate at Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College, Haverhill, including many from Chalkstone and Parkway middle schools.

Six pupils made arguments for the motions and another six against it, with Peter Hedge, head of drama at Samuel Ward, chairing the debate.

Not surprisingly, most pupils were against the motion, but after hearing arguments about improving public safety and reducing vandalism, 19 eventually agreed to support it.

Healthy figures for top hospital

WEST Suffolk Hospital patients are receiving faster treatment than ever before – and it is now ranked as the second-best performing trust in the country for hitting 18-week waiting time targets.

End-of-year performance figures show that 99 per cent of patients admitted to the hospital in Bury St Edmunds were treated within 18 weeks of referral by their GP, surpassing its target of 90 per cent.

The figures also show that 99.09 per cent of non-admitted patients were seen within 18 weeks, which compares with a target of 95 per cent.

The figures place West Suffolk as the best performing trust in the East of England and the second best non-specialist acute hospital in the country for hitting the targets.

Gwen Nuttall, chief operating officer at the trust,

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

said: "We are delighted with these latest figures, which show that the treatment our patients are receiving is amongst the fastest in the entire country.

"Our staff have worked extremely hard to achieve these great results and have shown enormous commitment and dedication to finding the most efficient ways of working, while ensuring that we continue to maintain the highest-possible standards."

The figures also show the hospital hit its targets for reducing healthcare-associated infections.

During the past year, six cases of MRSA infection were acquired in the hospital and three within the community, taking the total for the year to nine, which is in line with the ceiling figure set by the Department of Health.

The trust also surpassed its target for reducing the number of cases of clostridium difficile. The 2009/10 threshold stood at 58, with West Suffolk recording a total of 44 for the year.

Nichole Day, chief nurse and director of infection prevention and control, said: "We are really pleased with these latest figures as reducing infection is something we take very seriously.

"We would like to pass our thanks onto our patients and visitors who have played their part in this major success by taking on board the hand hygiene message.

"We have a range of stringent measures in place which have had a significant impact on reducing incidents of healthcare-associated infections.

"As well as regularly screening patients for MRSA, we have recruited extra cleaning staff and use isolation facilities if infections do occur to limit the chances of them spreading."

Meet the teams

SAFER Neighbourhood Teams (SNT) will hold police 'street meets' on Saturday at Sainsbury's, Haycocks Road, Haverhill, and on Friday June 4 at the town's arts centre, High Street, both from 10am-11am.

Meetings will also be held on Saturday June 5 at Tesco, Cangle Road, from 2pm-3pm and on Tuesday June 8 at St Edmundsbury Borough Council Offices, Lower Downs Slade, from 10am-11am.

The Bury Rural South SNT mobile police station will be at Stradishall, outside the church, on Saturday from 10.30-11.30am.

Cat flap thieves

THIEVES crawled through a cat flap to enter a house at Gainsborough Road, Haverhill, between 10.45pm last Thursday and 4.30am on Saturday and stole an iPod and a handbag. Calls in relation to this incident should be made to DS Andy Day at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100.

Boy's bike stolen

A BOY'S red and white Vector BMX bike was stolen from a front garden at Cambridge Way, Haverhill, between 8.05pm and 8.35pm last Thursday.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Sgt Sarah Bartley at the Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100.

New MP hails more control for councils

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editor@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

NEW MP Matthew Hancock has pledged to work closely with Suffolk County Council for the benefit of his constituents.

It came after the newly-elected West Suffolk MP met the leader, senior officers and councillors on Monday.

Mr Hancock has taken over the Westminster seat from fellow Conservative Richard Spring, who did not stand for re-election. He visited Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College in Haverhill to meet Cllr Jeremy Pembroke, leader of the county council, and his senior leadership team.

Cllr Pembroke called the meeting to discuss how the council will meet "the serious financial challenges" that lie ahead.

Mr Hancock said it was a "very pertinent" time for the meeting, as it coincided with the new coalition Government's launch of a policy giving more power to local councils.

He told the Weekly News: "We had a long discussion about the new programme, which will be both a challenge to reduce the deficit and an opportunity for decisions to be made closer to local people.

"Councils will be able to respond to local people's needs without constantly having to do what they are told by Whitehall. It is an opportunity, but these are still very challenging times."

The meeting also discussed the success Haverhill schools had had in improving standards and the looming change from a three-tier to a two-tier education system.

Mr Hancock said: "The most important thing is to make sure that the transition goes as smoothly as possible and we have excellent leaders in both colleges to make sure that this happens."

"The most important thing is that we all get involved and communicate with each other."

'Caring teenage daughter is my rock and my best friend'

AS her teenager daughter walks through the door, back from a day at school, Nicky Littlechild's face lights up.

"I couldn't be more proud of Sophie," she smiles. "She's loving, caring, incredibly supportive; she's my rock – and my best friend, to be honest."

Like most girls her age, Sophie, 16, is in the middle of studying for her GCSEs; her ambition is to join the Navy. When she's not studying, she loves playing sport, going shopping, chilling out with friends... But that's where the similarities with most teenagers end. Sophie is a young carer – and she spends hours of every day looking after her younger brothers, Daniel and Harry.

Both boys suffer from Fragile X, a genetic syndrome, it causes a range of physical and intellectual limitations. Aged 12 and 7, Daniel and Harry still behave like toddlers: they wear nappies, need bathing and changing and are constantly on the go – Harry has never slept through the night.

BY ALICE RYAN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"It is hard sometimes," admits Sophie, who comes from Cambourne. "They can be quite aggressive, which is difficult, and looking after them is very tiring; when you're with them it's full-on. But then they'll do or say something sweet or funny which makes up for it all."

Sophie's amazing attitude has just won her a nomination for the Spicers Young People of the Year awards, known as the Yopeys. Launched in Cambridgeshire five years ago, the awards are designed to recognise young people who give to others.

The brainchild of former national newspaper journalist Tony Gearing, who lives in Royston, the awards aim to counter some of the bad press youngsters receive; new Prime Minister David Cameron hailed the Yopeys as "a flourishing social enterprise able to provide recognition for inspirational young people".

"Sophie absolutely deserves to win an award,"

Supportive: Nicky Littlechild with daughter Sophie and sons Daniel and Harry.

says Nicky. "She's brilliant with the boys and she's amazingly supportive to me and Matt, my husband. I don't know what we'd have done without her." Daniel was the first to be diagnosed with Fragile X. Sophie and her older brother Rhys, now 19, were, remembers their mum, thrilled to have a little brother. "From the moment he was born he was spoiled by his big brother and sister," says Nicky. "But then, when he was about six months old, my mother said she thought he might have autism: he was still totally floppy, like a newborn really."

When Daniel was 18 months old, doctors decided to run a series of blood tests. "He wasn't developing at a normal rate," explains Nicky. "They said the tests would eliminate certain things – like Fragile X. I'd never heard of it, but they said: 'Don't worry, it won't be that.'"

"Six weeks later, the results came back. I can still remember the doctor saying: 'I'm sorry – it is Fragile X Syndrome.' I burst into tears straight away; the first thing I asked was: 'Is he going to die?'"

As Nicky and Matt discovered, Fragile X is a condition caused by an inherited chromosomal abnormality. It is not life-limiting, but the resulting symptoms range widely in severity – and can come hand in hand with other disorders, like autism, which Daniel has been diagnosed with, and Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), which affects Harry.

More blood tests showed that Nicky is a carrier of Fragile X; she inherited it from her father. "My dad had only just died when Daniel was diagnosed," she remembers. "He'd suffered a brain haemorrhage at 40 and had been ill for a long time. It was an awful time for us," continues Nicky, 39. "I felt – sometimes I still feel – incredibly guilty that I was carrying the condition that has caused my children harm."

As a carrier of Fragile X, medics told Nicky she too might have some symptoms, albeit far milder than Daniel's. "I'd always really struggled with maths, and they said that was connected," she explains.

Thanks to a specialist support worker, the whole family threw themselves into helping Daniel: as well as learning about play therapy, they adopted new communication techniques – including the sign language Makaton.

Demonstrating a few simple signs, Nicky explains that Daniel was very slow to speak: he was three when he learned his first few words. Even though Sophie was only little herself, she too learned Makaton to help.

Deciding they would like another baby, but fearful it might also inherit Fragile X, Nicky and Matt requested IVF treatment. But, as a mother-of-three already, doctors said Nicky didn't qualify.

"But then, out of the blue, I fell pregnant. We were told we could have a test for Fragile X at 10 weeks but, when we went, the baby was in the wrong place. After that my husband and I decided we wouldn't be able to go ahead with a termination anyway, that whatever was meant to be was meant to be."

When Harry was born, the whole family was over the moon. "Sophie was like a little mother," laughs Nicky. "I used to wake up in the morning and find her sitting on my bed cuddling him. They've always had a very special relationship; she idolises him. Nowadays he likes playing rough and tumble and she'll always make time to play with him. And she's always teaching him things: if you ask him: 'Who's the best?' he says: 'Sis is! – it's all great for his communication skills and development.'"

As a tiny baby, Harry seemed completely normal. "The doctors decided to delay testing for Fragile X until he was six months old," adds Nicky. "They were worried it might affect bonding. But he didn't seem to have any of the symptoms – so when they said he had tested positive it was a real shock."

As the boys have grown up, life for the whole Littlechild family has been challenging. "Harry is just on the go all the time," explains Nicky. "We've had seven years of sleepless nights: he'll wake up at 1am, 2am, 3am and be jumping around all over the place. He and Daniel are both at Samuel Pepys School and Harry has one-to-one support; the support workers used to take it in half-hour shifts, because he's just so tiring."

"They're like toddlers: someone has to be with them all the time; if one of them goes out into the garden, they have to be accompanied – Harry can scale the 6ft fence. Neither of them have any sense of danger."

"We've made our home totally safe for them, but going away on holiday is a nightmare. We have tried it a couple of times but Harry escapes. And Christmas is always difficult. I love Christmas but I'm trying not to look forward to it this year: we can't visit family or anything, because it's just too much for the boys."

"I feel guilty about the fact that Daniel and Harry have to be our priority all the time; Rhys and Sophie have had a very loving upbringing, but it hasn't been a normal one."

At 12, Daniel is becoming more aggressive. Nicky says he lashes out and hits when he becomes frustrated or excited.

"We're lucky that both the boys are very loving, there's been no problem with bonding," she adds. "But it's very tough. And they'll always need care; it's just the way it is."

Both she and Matt, 40, have, Nicky admits, struggled to cope at times. "Matt had a full-time job and was a retained fire fighter, but he had to give up work," she says. "And we're both on tablets to help us cope. I couldn't cope without my husband to be honest: we're very much a team. And Sophie is just amazing. She's my best friend – I'll really miss her when she joins the Navy. And she's also a third pair of hands; we'll really miss her help with the boys."

Sophie was tested for Fragile X at the age of 12, because Nicky suspected she was showing symptoms – struggling with maths. The tests revealed she too is a carrier. "I'm so proud of the way she's coped," adds Nicky. "She's doing really well at school."

About to start her GCSE exams, Sophie admits it can be hard to study at home – unless the boys are in bed.

"A lot of things that other people take for granted seem really special to us," she adds. "Things like going out for a meal together, or just spending some quiet time at home as a family, when the boys have respite care."

"It's really funny because I know a lot of people my age would hate spending time with their parents, but I always really look forward to it. We're really close."

Sophie says she wants to join the Navy "to make something of myself. I think it would be a great thing to look back on, having travelled the world."

Recommended for a Yohey by her teachers, Sophie stands to win a £1,000 prize – £500 to keep and £500 to give to charity. There will also be a second prize of £500, third of £250 and several runners-up prizes. The awards, to be announced in July, are sponsored by Spicers, Europe's leading wholesaler of office products, along with the county's police, Cambridge Building Society and Cambridge University Press, among others.

Collection day changes with new waste contract

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

MOST householders in St Edmundsbury will soon need to put their bins out on a different day.

The council's waste disposal contract will change from the end of June and the council's bin lorries will now take black bin waste to different disposal points.

St Edmundsbury is using the change as an opportunity to redesign collection rounds to make them more efficient and help reduce the amount of fuel used and cut carbon emissions.

Council chiefs say the new contract will also save money for taxpayers.

The council is still working on plans for the new rounds, but has warned that most residents will have to put out their bins on a different day, as well as possibly changing the week they put out their blue/brown and black bins.

A spokesman said: "At this stage, we are simply asking people to be aware that these changes are coming and encourage them to look out for more specific information in early June.

"The council will be target specific information to all householders and will ensure that community groups, parish councils and landlords are aware that changes are coming in order that they can support residents."

Information will be sent to individual households, put on to bins and there will also be a Freephone helpline available nearer the time.

Trio step out for charity

TWIN sisters Grace and Libby Kelly and friend, Natalie Webb, stepped out on four legs to take part in a sponsored walk in aid of East Anglia's Children's Hospices (EACH).

The sisters, from Kedington, and Natalie, from Depden, were among students on public service courses at West Suffolk College in Bury St Edmunds who put on their walking shoes to raise money for the charity.

Students were sponsored to walk or run around an athletics track in Bury St Edmunds. In total, 80 students completed around 22 laps each.

They hope to raise around £10 each in sponsorship, and be able to donate £800 to EACH.

On track: West Suffolk College students Natalie Webb and twins Grace and Libby Kelly added an extra element of fun to the sponsored walk by tying their legs together.

Hot idea to raise cash for hospice

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynnews.co.uk

HAVERHILL barbecuers are invited to make it a "sizzling summer" for their local hospice.

St Nicholas Hospice is urging residents to make use of the summer weather to organise a fundraising barbecue, summer picnic or strawberry tea. But instead of bringing just a bottle of wine, guests are also asked to donate a small amount of money to the hospice.

Community fundraiser Ian Norris, who came up with the fundraising idea, said: "Having a barbecue or a summer picnic is one of the great English traditions and we hope this will encourage people to hold a summer sizzle event in aid of the hospice."

"Maybe you can invite friends and family to a special World Cup barbecue or have a strawberry tea afternoon to celebrate the Wimbledon tennis tournament."

"Whatever you do, we want to know. And just a small donation from everyone attending can make a massive difference."

Summer days: hospice community fundraiser Ian Norris and Trish Muxlow, who will be holding a barbecue to raise vital funds, at last week's launch. CP

The fundraiser was launched last week with a special barbecue in the grounds of the hospice in Bury St Edmunds for staff, volunteers, patients and supporters.

A special free party pack has been designed by the hospice fundraising team and is available by calling (01284) 747624.

A special Summer Sizzle Facebook page has been set up for anyone planning to put on an event.

Mr Norris also asked people to upload pictures and videos from the various events to the page.

New tool to help resolve offences

CRIMINALS could apologise to their victim or accept a warning under new moves to keep low level offenders out of the court system.

West Suffolk police officers have been trialling "community resolution" to deal with some offences.

It is new way of resolving crime available to police officers, which is generally used when dealing with low-level local offences. A community resolution could be in the form of an apology, reparation or compensations between the offender and the victim, or the acceptance of advice from an officer.

Community resolution was introduced to provide officers with discretion to deal with the individual circumstances of each offence.

Suffolk police said it allows police officers and staff to decide how to resolve situations in a way that best meets the needs of the victims, witnesses and communities, to help build their trust and confidence in the police.

A spokesman said community resolution also reduces bureaucracy and involves the victim in the decision-making process.

He said: "It is also about going back to the core values of policing and having the ability to deal with minor offences more swiftly though a common sense approach."

"The offender must admit the offence and agree to participate in the process. If the community resolution is not completed, the offender can be summonsed for the original offence."

Police link raids on sheds

TWO burglaries from out-buildings in Wickhambrook are being linked by police.

At Malting End, between 8pm last Thursday and 8.45am the following day, thieves broke into stables by cutting a padlock and stole a red Briggs and Stratton ride-on lawnmower.

An unlocked shed was also raided and an orange chainsaw stolen.

Between Wednesday May 19 and last Friday, elsewhere in the village, a garage was broken into after thieves forced the lock. A lawnmower was stolen.

Calls in relation to these incidents should be made to Sgt Kevin Horton at the St Edmundsbury Rural South Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100.

PREPARE for some "bootiful" comedy moments as brash comic Al Murray brings his Pub Landlord persona to Cambridge for not one, but two dates.

Voted number 16 on Channel 4's 100 greatest stand-ups and listed in The Observer as one of the 50 funniest acts in British comedy, Murray has become one of the most celebrated acts of recent years.

He has toured with the likes of Harry Hill and Frank Skinner and won a British Comedy Award for his ITV chat show Al Murray's Happy Hour.

Murray's live shows are notoriously chatty and not for the shy or the faint-hearted. Front rows beware – the fearless sexist/xenophobe will surely be taking no prisoners in this latest show, which sees the Oxford graduate grace his rival city – signalling a spot of trouble brewing already.

Murray performed with the Oxford Revue while he studied history at St Edmund Hall. Lets hope none of the Footlights gang are in the audience on Saturday . . .

The Pub Landlord character first appeared in 1994 when Murray was the tour support act for Harry Hill and subsequently featured in a short film, Pub

Fiction in 1995.

Murray's theatre show with the character, My Gaff, My Rules, was short-listed for an Laurence Olivier Award in 2002 and he has also appeared in character as the central focus of the television series Time Gentlemen Please, as well as a number of other television appearances, including the An Audience with . . . series.

Subsequent theatre tours, A Glass of White Wine for the Lady and Giving it Both Barrels also ran to critical acclaim.

As well as a sold-out stint at The Junction in Cambridge, Murray will be supporting the Imperial War Museum's new Historic Duxford project with a special fundraising gig at Duxford on Saturday afternoon.

Tickets for this exclusive one-hour gig will be strictly limited to 180 and are available on a first-come first-served basis. Every penny raised will go towards the new Historic Duxford project, which sets out to tell the story of RAF Duxford and the vital role played by the inspiring men and women who served from this historic airfield.

■ Al Murray: The Pub Landlord, Imperial War Museum, Duxford, Saturday at 3pm. Tickets £35 from www.duxford.iwm.org.uk

Global movement

THE Geoff Bailey Dancers will be taking audiences on a global journey in search of contemporary and classical theatre and dance in a brand new show.

Global is set to tunes old, new and obscure, and promises to be a memorable journey of dancing delights. The Geoff Bailey Dancers are a local group and believe that whoever you are, if you want to dance, you can. The dancers come from all sorts of different backgrounds and comprise all shapes, sizes, ages and levels of experience. The group has been entertaining audiences since the 1980s, when most of the youth of Willingham took to the boards at the local social club. Recent adventures have seen the dancers busking in the streets for Cancer Research UK and performing in local festivals.

Global is on at Mumford Theatre, Cambridge, tomorrow and Saturday at 7.30pm. Tickets cost £7.50 (£5 concessions). Contact 0845 196 2320 / www.mumfordtheatre.co.uk

Keane on forests

PIANO rockers Keane will take a musical walk through the woods next month. Keane have had three consecutive number one albums and collected a truck load of Brit, Grammy and Ivor Novello awards. Their collection of hits, including Everybody's Changing, Is It Any Wonder?, Crystal Ball, Somewhere Only We Know and Spiralling, has secured Keane's place as one of Britain's best-loved bands.

As well as selling an impressive 10 million albums, the band's live reputation is marked by their huge sold out arena tours and critical acclaim.

Keane will be performing at Thetford Forest, near Brandon, on Thursday, June 10, as part of the Forestry Commission's Live Music summer series.

Tickets are £32. Phone (01842) 814612 or go to www.forestry.gov.uk/music. Music generated by ticket sales is spent directly on the nation's woodlands, benefiting everything from butterflies to mountain bikers.

Belly laughs and epic battles at arts centre

AN EXCITING group of musicians from Cambridge and Haverhill bring their novel perspective on brass music to Haverhill Arts Centre tomorrow.

Tube's aim is to make it challenging, enlightening and fun with their varied repertoire, which includes the classics, the contemporary, the bold and the downright different!

They take to the stage at 7.30pm. ■ If you can take the pace, it's chuckle time again – the Monkey Nuts Comedy Club arrives back at the arts centre on Sunday with the off-beat and hilarious Joe Rowntree, Mike Gunn, who “will make you die laughing”, according to The Guardian, and the refreshingly original Matthew Hardy.

All this for £8.50, but if you join the Monkey Nuts Comedy Club for a mere £1, you can come in future for £7! You're having a laugh! Start grinning from 8pm.

■ Following their success with Giraffes Can't Dance and The Rainbow Fish, Blunderbus Theatre return to the arts centre next Wednesday with Elmer the Elephant, which is suitable for children aged 4 and over.

Elmer was not an ordinary elephant – he was red, yellow, green and blue, every colour of the rainbow in fact! But Elmer didn't want to be different, he wanted to be like all the other elephants.

Be whisked away to a land of make-believe with this bewitching, one-hour musical adaptation of David McKee's book. There are performances at 1pm and 3.30pm. ■ The cinema is looking good this week.

Big screen: Colin Firth stars in A Single Man, part of a packed cinema line-up at the arts centre.

Colin Firth offers a master-class in quiet devastation as George, a gay professor whose partner of 16 years has unexpectedly passed away, in A Single Man (12A) on Saturday at 7.45pm.

Nanny McPhee and the Big Bang (U) is the sequel to the highly successful original 2005 adaptation and is showing on Saturday at 2.30pm and Thursday, June 3 at 2.30pm. With a touch of magic, our eccentric heroine, Miss McPhee whips a woman's unruly children into shape.

The Scouting Book for Boys (15), which screens next Wednesday at 7.45pm, deals with adolescent angst and rebellion. When David (Thomas Turgoose of This is England) helps best friend Emily run away, he soon begins to struggle with the complexity of their innocent but irresponsible act.

In DreamWorks' latest adventure, How to Train Your Dragon (PG), a young Viking boy dreams of becoming a famous dragon slayer, but soon discovers there is much more to these feared creatures than meets the eye. It is showing on Thursday, June 3, and Friday, June 4 at 10.30am.

Finally, swords-and-sandals epic Clash of the Titans (12A), starring Ralph Fiennes and Liam Neeson, is showing on Friday, June 4 at 7.45pm. Perseus, son of Zeus, is forced to make a treacherous journey into the underworld to prevent a demon uprising threatening Earth.

The big film

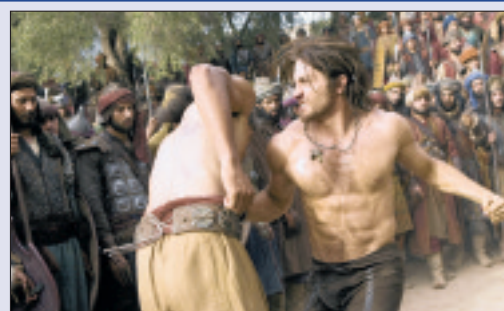

PRINCE OF PERSIA: THE SANDS OF TIME (12A, 115 mins) Action. Jake Gyllenhaal, Gemma Arterton, Sir Ben Kingsley, Alfred Molina, Toby Kebbell, Richard Coyle, Ronald Pickup. Director: Mike Newell

INSPIRED by best-selling video games series Prince Of Persia: The Sands Of Time is a rollicking escapade which marries gorgeous Moroccan locations with state-of-the-art visual effects.

The storyline of Mike Newell's big budget adventure incorporates a romantic subplot to appeal to female audiences who might otherwise give this testosterone-heavy romp a wide berth.

The casting of a buffed up Jake Gyllenhaal in the lead role will also prove a draw as the Oscar-nominated star of Brokeback Mountain casts aside his indie credentials to throw himself into the melee of this mindless popcorn fodder.

Physically, he is more than a match for any protracted fight sequence in Boaz Yakin, Doug Miro and Carlo Bernard's predictable script and he nails the British accent of his gung-ho hero. However, there's no emotional content and the flirtation with ballys co-star Gemma Arterton remains suitably chaste.

A brief prologue establishes the lineage of King Sharaman (Pickup) with a visit to a Persian marketplace, where the monarch picks a street urchin called Dastan to become his surrogate son. Fifteen years later, rugged Dastan (Gyllenhaal) joins his brothers Tus (Coyle) and Garsiv (Kebbell) as they head for a fortress controlled by Princess Tamina (Arterton), which is rumoured to be the source of weapons for the King's enemies. During the assault on the city defences, Dastan unwittingly acquires a mythical dagger – a powerful gift from the Gods which allows the holder to reverse the flow of time.

He is then framed for the murder of his beloved father and forced to flee for his life with Tamina in tow. Spurred on by their nefarious uncle Nizam (Kingsley), Tus and jealous sibling Garsiv vow to slay Dastan in revenge for their father's murder. Meanwhile, the outlaws encounter ostrich racing supremo Amar (Molina) and realise that the only way to unmask the real killer is to manipulate the dagger and turn back time.

Keep your cool in the garden after late frosts

As Chelsea exhibitors struggle to bring their prize plants to perfection for the flower show later this month because of the late cold snap, domestic gardeners will also be suffering the effects of the coldest May in 17 years.

Many seedlings will be struggling to survive, even in cold frames, and some tender plants which have been put out too early will end up being consigned to the compost bin.

Temperatures recently fell to minus 5C (23F) in Redesdale, Northumberland, and minus 4C (24.8F) in Chesham, Buckinghamshire, while the lowest recorded temperature in the cold snap was minus 6C (21.2F) at Altnaharra, in the Scottish Highlands.

Many plants in unheated greenhouses, such as tender geraniums and fuchsias, will have succumbed to the late frosts, says Matthew Wilson,

by Hannah Stephenson

presenter of Channel 4 gardening series The Landscape Man.

"The big problem for the domestic gardener is if you have an unheated greenhouse which has big fluctuations in temperature, it's a nightmare for plants.

"Bright sunshine during the day will warm it up but then at night the temperature plummets, which will disrupt plant growth."

He advises gardeners to install a heater in a greenhouse temporarily and leave protection such as bubblewrap on the glass, making sure you are opening the vents during the day so there is less fluctuation.

For those who still have seed trays on their windowsills indoors, it may be worth leaving pricking out a bit longer, until the weather has warmed up a bit.

Tender veg such as tomatoes, green beans and courgettes need to remain indoors until the end of the month, or early next month if the cold snap continues, as they are extremely susceptible to frost.

If your veg are outgrowing their plug plant pots, simply transplant them into larger pots until it is safe to plant them outside.

Warm the soil where you are sowing seeds with sheets of clear plastic to help them along.

For those who have lost a lot of their summer bedding to the frost, it's worth direct sowing hardy annuals outdoors. There's a huge variety of cornfield annuals including mixtures of poppies, cornflowers and other meadow varieties which will provide you with plenty of colour outdoors.

Keep direct sowing outdoors successionally, one batch in mid-May and another in early June, to extend the flowering season. Many seed mixtures go from seedlings to flowers in eight to 10 weeks.

The coldest winter for 30 years means that many established perennials will take longer to get going again, but be patient because they will come back.

Also, seeds which you have planted in the soil outside will take longer to germinate.

Wilson says: "The frosts haven't been particularly deep so it won't have been cold enough to damage seeds in the ground. Seeds which haven't germinated are probably going to be okay but will come through later than usual.

"The good news is it's not so late that more seeds can't be sown. Just sow another batch. Successional sowing will prolong the flowering season."

Seedlings which have already been transplanted into the garden may survive if there's reasonable cover in cold frames or under horticultural

Caution: seedlings growing on windowsills indoors may have to wait a little longer before they are planted outdoors. CP fleece, but you may lose some. If the seedlings are large enough, you can pinch out the damaged growth and they may still survive.

Shrubs of borderline hardiness which have survived previous mild winters may have been damaged this year. Plants such as Choisya ternata, Pittosporum tobira, lemon verbena, Chilean glory flower and wisteria may suffer but they may not have died.

Wilson advises: "With shrubs such as choisya, prune out the damaged wood after flowering and keep your fingers crossed that it grows back."

If you think a shrub has died, scratch the bark away from the stem at the base and you should see healthy green, flexible wood underneath. Prune it by following the damaged wood back until you find new growth.

The blossom on fruit trees such as apples, pears, apricots and plums may have been frost-damaged, which means there will be slightly less fruit being set, but this should be tempered by the fact that we've had an incredible spring for blossom.

"Everything will be a bit later this year but if we get a long, hot, dry summer, nature should balance it out," Wilson adds.

The Toyota Auris Hybrid: Advanced and efficient low-emissions technology in the C sector.

Hybrid Auris is C sector first

TOYOTA again takes the lead in delivering advanced and efficient user-friendly low emissions technology with the launch of its new Auris Hybrid, the first full hybrid vehicle in the European C-segment.

Its arrival makes the Auris range a unique proposition in its class, with customers offered a choice of petrol, diesel or full hybrid powertrains.

Auris Hybrid has been designed specifically for the European market and is built exclusively by Toyota Motor Manufacturing UK at its Burnaston factory. The 1.8-litre VVT-i petrol engine that forms part of the powertrain is sourced from TMUK's plant at Deeside in North Wales.

The benefits of Toyota's Hybrid Synergy Drive powertrain used in the new model go beyond exceptional fuel economy and low CO2 emissions: it is user-friendly and delivers a quiet, matches any conventional 2.0-litre petrol or diesel hatchback.

When fitted with 15-inch wheels, combined cycle fuel economy is 74.3mpg and CO2 emissions are 89 g/km; with the 17-inch wheel option the figures remain exceptional at 70.6mpg and 93g/km, levels unmatched by any other car in its segment. In addition, NOx emissions are significantly lower than those of diesel cars of comparable performance. Across the range, the emissions performance exempts Auris Hybrid from UK road tax (VED).

When taking advantage of the full hybrid system's switchable EV (electric vehicle) mode, CO2 and NOx emissions are cut to zero over distances of up to 1.2 miles at speeds of up to 30 mph, according to the level of battery charge and driving conditions.

The new Auris Hybrid T4 model costs £18,950 on-the-road and the T Spirit model costs £20,700.

comfortable and stress-free drive unlike anything else in the segment.

The system's 1.8-litre VVT-i petrol engine and electric motor generate a maximum 134bhp, giving nought to 62mph acceleration in 11.4 seconds and a top speed of 112 mph, performance that

Goldsmith's cup delight

DAN Goldsmith's 87 was the key innings as beat Haverhill by four wickets in the Adams Harrison Cup. John Crawford added 31 and Gary Ellis 37 as Horseheath reached 198 for 6 in reply to Haverhill's 195 for 2.

On a good day for batsmen, Adam Dellar was unbeaten on 69 and Dan Poole and Sam Powell both made 47 for the losing side.

Saffron Walden made it into the next round at the expense of Sawston after Joe Barrs hit 70 and Tom George 27 in their total of 165 for 7. Darren Cousins (3 for 13) and Scott Barker (3 for 16) then dismissed Sawston for 89.

Matt Thomas' knock of 55 helped Abington reach 185 for 7 against Babraham, with Vic Sharma contributing 33. In reply, Babraham could manage only 121 for 4 despite Tom McNulty hitting 28 and Chris Palmer 33 not out.

In the league cup, 2008 winners Abington II were beaten by Mill Green. Ed Argent hit 46 and Paul Dockerill 28 as the winners reached 122 for 7 in reply to 119 for 6.

Martin Buckner's 40 was decisive on a day of low scores as Manor (112 for 8) beat Haverhill II (106 for 9).

Steve Lanceman took 3 for 20 for the winning side, while Daniel Webb picked up 3 for 15 and Liam Botten 3 for 20 for Haverhill.

Balsham fell at the first hurdle despite

■ From back page
Haverhill put up a decent fight to end on 264 for 5, with Carl Bradford top-scoring on 72, his highest for the club and Joe Woodley hitting 46.

The seconds were well beaten by Great Cornard after being dismissed for 97. Only young wicketkeeper Alex Archer really troubled the scorers with 36, while 23 extras also contributed.

Cornard reached 98 for 4 in the 23rd over, despite Sam Hartshorn picking up 3 for 20.

35 for Tom Daniels and 34 not out for Nick Abrey, in their reply of 112 for 4 to Highpoint's 123 for 8 (Luke Clayden 28).

Giles Ecclestone's spell of 4 for 6 could not help Linton to victory over Ashdon as the winners reached 94 for 6 in reply to Linton's 92 all out.

Hundon II were on the receiving end of a mammoth score from opponents Great Yeldham, who posted 222 for 5. Jack Beaumont took 4 for 29 and there were three stumpings for Kevin Davis. Tom Beaumont then hit 47 and Ed Pickering 41, but Hundon managed only 128 for 7.

Gestingthorpe (114 for 1) were comfortable winners over Babraham II (118 for 8).

Ace Ellis ends wait for a win

GARY Ellis did the damage as Horseheath claimed their first win of the season in the CCA Senior League Division One with a 91-run triumph at fellow early strugglers Wilbrahams.

Ellis smacked 81 and Steve Lanceman 33 in a partnership of 92 before the visitors were dismissed for 207 with Matt Hall taking 3 for 27.

Ellis then claimed 4 for 31 and Dennis Willis 3 for 42 to get rid of the hosts for 116.

Horseheath captain Dan Goldsmith said: "We desperately needed the win, because we'd had two close games this year only to lose.

"We've got a bit of a new-look team this year, but they're gelling together nicely and getting used to playing with each other."

Opener Arvid Gunderson top-scored with 38 but only Trevor Westley (23), Adam Curtis (20) and Peter Bragg (21) seriously troubled the scorers and the innings ended on 146 all out. Fred Scruby took two wickets, but Castor cruised to victory, reaching 149 for 3.

Scott Webb did his bit with bat and ball as Haverhill beat Brockley by 12 runs at home in Division Two of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship.

Captain Adam Dellar hit 58 and Webb 56 as the hosts reached 247 for 7. Webb and Simon Youngs then claimed four scalps apiece as the visitors were dismissed for 235.

Haverhill II remain unbeaten and are second in the Division Six table after a 31-run win in a high-scoring match at Braintree.

Sam Hartshorn (43) and Steve Taylor (73) opened up for Haverhill and played some lovely shots in a partnership of 110 in 20 overs.

Dan Wilkins (40 no) and Greg Street (43) chipped in, before Jason Ketteridge (60no) smashed seven fours and two mighty sixes to take the final total to 307 for 4.

Micky Rinaldi and Martyn Wilkins kept things tight at the start of Braintree's reply and Joey Kettle (3 for 52) made inroads.

Dan Webb then entered the attack and took 5 for 92 from 13.1 overs, and although their opener scored 109, Braintree were all out for 273 in the last over.
